2.3.1 Student centric methods, such as experiential learning, participative learning peer learning, team teaching, case law method and problem solving methodologies are used for enhancing learning experiences :-

D.P. Vipra Law College Bilaspur is only one faculty college. College emphasises to improve the learning level of students by using different learning approaches like Experiential Learning, Participative Learning, Problem Solving Methodologies. The college has well furnished Moot Court room which is helpful for students to understand court room practice.

Experiential Learning :-

Institute tries to promote quality education and knowledge among students through experiential learning. MOUs with institutes, industries are signed for collaborative learning and knowledge exchange. Social awareness programme also conducted in nearby places and adopted village for taking civil responsibilities. Internship/Court attaining for final year student is also excellent feeling to present in court room and watch actual court room procedure and functioning of chambers of the advocates.

Participative Learning :-

This learning process approach by the college for teaching learning process to explore the knowledge and skills. Students are encouraged to participate in various co-curricular activities organised in the college and inter college competition. Co-curricular activities provide a platform to the students to participation and excel their talent in various events such as Debate, Painting, Rangoli. NSS cell organise awareness rallies, plantation, blood donation camp, health awareness and legal literacy programme with large number of students participation.

Problem Solving Methodologies :-

Problem Solving Methodology is one of the tremendous approach for the students. Students are involved to make practical files, dissertations. Moot court is the excellent approach for the law students to exercise actual court room practice and procedure, it is best experience for student.
